The greater part of the business was for account of the professionals, but there was also a temper of the financial community was more cheerful than at any time since the introduction of the Cuban beiligerency resolutions. London lent some support and covby the traders was quite the order of the day. There was a marked absence of news having a legitimate bearing on prices, aside from the encouraging exhibit of February gross earnings, including those of St. Paul. The company mentioned shows an increase of $378,158. The market opened strong and higher, and a further degree of strength was imparted by the reassuring cables of London prices for Americans and some buying of the international shares in New York. It has become the fashion with the traders to mark time on London, owing to the absence of outside interest in the The upward movement was checked for a brief interval by an attack on Burlington, which caused a drop of 14 per cent, in that stock. The selling was again attributed to the unsatisfactory character of the January report, published on Monday. Other stocks lost substantially movement was soon resumed with renewed vigor. General Electric was especially strong, gaining 1½ per cent. on gossip of expected favorable developments. Sugar advanced 11/4 per cent, on repurchases by interests that were heavy sellers last week on the Cuban scare. Tobacco moved irregularly within a range of a point and was Leather preferred, on the other hand, was exceptionally weak on further liquidation of Boston holdings. CHICAGO BULLS FAVORED BY GEN-ERAL WHEAT MARKET NEWS.

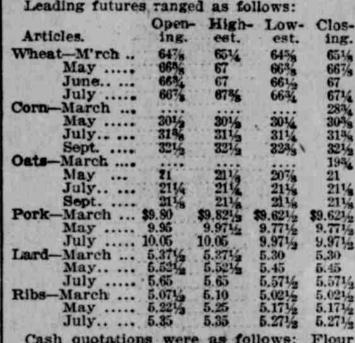

Corn Was Heavy and Closed Lower with Provisions-Oats Active and Unchanged.

CHICAGO, March 4.-Wheat, after pursuing an erratic course over a narrow range, closed with a gain of 1/201/2 over Tuesday's final figures. Trading was again extremely limited, but the bulls were favored by the statistical news and had somewhat the best closed somewhat lower. Oats made no quotable change, and provisions show general

Another dull day was reported in wheat, the market at times ruling exceedingly slow, the range for the session being confined within %c range. The market, although opening where it left off yesterday, manifested some weakness early, due largely to the lower cables, both English and continental, and the deliveries in the North, which were fairly generous, being about the same as a week ago, but 157 cars larger than those of a year ago. There was very little improvement in the speculative business, outside trade being almost at a standstill and with foreigners doing practically nothing at with foreigners doing practically nothing at the seaboard, holders found little encouragement, and liquidation and short selling resulted. The chief rally of the day was on a report that Toledo had sent a bid here for 200,000 by of wheat to go all rail. This looked encouraging, and there was a momentary rally, but it was soon lost when it was found that the price bid was below the market. Bradstreet's report was the next matter to engage attention, and as it showed a decrease of 3,775,000 bu in the world's stocks, including the reduction of 1.593,000 bu for the crease of 3,775,000 bu in the world's stocks, including the reduction of 1,593,000 bu for the month on the Pacific coast, the trade considered it a good reason for putting the price up and they proceeded to do so. But at the advance an unlimited number of selling orders poured in and the decline was quicker than the advance. May opened about unchanged at 66%,066%c, eased off to 64%c, reacted to 66%,067c, and off again to 66%c. Trade continued dull during the final hour, but a somewhat firmer feeling was evident and the price gradually climbed back to 66%c, where it closed. Trading in corn was extremely quiet and fluctuations narrow. Receipts were again heavy and had a depressing effect on prices, opened a shade lower at 30% @801/2c, urgent, but no improvement in prices resulted. May opened unchanged at 21@21%c, fluctuated within a %c margin and closed at Provisions were a distinct disappointment. The opening, influenced by the light hog re-celpts, was quite firm, and considerable advances were noted, but selling orders were so plentiful that the advance was lost and prices at the close were at the lowest point of the day, pork closing 10c lower, lard .071/2c Estimates for Thursday-Wheat, 72 cars corn, 425 cars; oats, 270 cars; hogs, 26,000 Leading futures ranged as follows:

Wheat has ruled steady and firm throughout the entire session. Early trades were at a fractional advance. The local crowd is bearish in the face of the damaging crop reports received and say there is no truth in these reports. It will take some time to convince the trade that the damage to the growing wheat has not been overestimated, but when that time arrives they will not be able to buy wheat at the ruling prices of to-day. Clearances show up larger and the foreign acceptances were greater today than for some time past. Northwestern receipts were about the same as a week ago and a trifle larger than one year ago. Cables come unchanged and indifferent, but, on the other hand, the crop situation is certainly enough to keep any one from selling. The time will come when all the shorts would like to cover their sales at once, and, then, what will be the result? Bradstreet's figures had a strengthening effect on the market when they were posted, showing a decrease of 2,182,000 bu in the world's visible. This, however, does not include the 1,000,000 bu destroyed by fire at Minneapolis. Taking this in, the decrease would have looked much larger. The cash business has been rather limited, some small lots going to interior mills. The general temperament of the crowd is bearish, and, until these crop scares are verified, we think the market will rule dull. The general tendency, however, will be upward, and we advise buying on every reaction. Corn has ruled strong and active. The greater part of the day trade at times was rather large and the buying of good quality, and one that usually helps the market. Oats have been steady, but a shade lower, with trade limited. Provisions-Pork opened 10c higher than the close of yesterday on advance in hogs at the yards. The advance did not hold, however, as there seems to be considerble pork for sale on every little advance. able pork for sale on every little advance, and looks as if some parties were getting short quite a line. This, however, is a poor time to be short of hog products, as the demand is just starting and at the price consumption of all hog products will be large. Ribs and lard are lower, in sympathy with pork. We do not look for any material decline.

His Attorneys Want Him Sent to the Asylum- More of the Jury Secrets.

Alonzo Rooker, who was acquitted in the Criminal Court Monday of the charge of killing his wife, Margaret Rooker, is to be tried for insanity. Attorneys Kealing & Hugg and Williard Robertson, who worked hard for Rooker's acquittal, will be no less zealous in their efforts to get him sent to the hospital for the insane. It was agree1 yesterday, between the prisoner's lawyers and Judge McCray, that the question should be brought up Saturday. The court will then give his opinion as to whether an insanity commission should be appointed or not. Until this question has been disposed of nothing will be done with the charge against Rooker of assault and battery with companion on the fatal night attempt to murder Emma Pees, his wife's Explanations continue to come from mem-bers of the Rooker jury. Richard Sellers, who was the first to speak, had more to say yesterday, and many of his assertions are corroborated by Louis Twente, another member of the jury. Both of these men declare they have been "worked." It is now positively known how the jury stood on the first ballot. Millard Connett, Jacob S. Wood, Thomas F. Brown and Charles Roberson stood out for acquittal from the start.

The first to come over to the side of these four was foreman Wycoff. Finally the vote stood six to six. Law books containing the marked passages used by the attorneys for the defense were brought into the jury room and read by Connett. The compromise verdict was not reached until late Monday afternoon, Both Sellers and Twente reassert that it was me final understanding of all that Rooker was to be sent to the insane hospital at once, and if found to be mentally sound was to be tried again KANSAS CITY, March 4.—Cattle—Receipts, 4,000; shipments, 1,300. Both jurors insist that they asked for additional instructions, but other jurors held out that this was im "We were also told," said Seliers, yesterday, "that we would have an opportunity to explain our position on the verdict, and that we could tell the court just why we voted as we did." "We were green," said Twente, "and others who knew more about jury trials than we did led us." Prosecutor Wiltsie says that it is not customary to poll juries of this character. however, it might have availed the prosec tion to have polled the jury. There having been a verdict of acquittal, the jurors could only answer "Yes" or "No" when their names were called. When Judge McCray asked, "Is this your verdict, gentlemen?" the jurors all signified that it was.

· Below zero. Indorsement of Colonel Walker. At a large meeting Thomas Post indorsed a single dissenting vote. At headquarters letters are being received in large numbers from Grand Army men in all parts of the country indersing the decision of the com-mander-in-chief regarding the blue and gray parade. Yesterday Colonel Walker was shown a dispatch sent from Wilmington, Del., purporting to be his language while in the East. After reading it he disclaimed using such language or anything like it. "It must have been sent by a person to whom I refused to speak on the subject," he said. Dr. Conover's Father Will Live. A telegram received yesterday by Dr. John Conover from Perry, O. T., says that

A Defense of Jury and Counsel. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: It is with much reluctance that I enter pon the discussion of the trial and verdict in the case of the State of Indiana against Alonzo Rooker for the murder of his wife, but there has been so much said, and much of it unjustly, too, against the twelve jurors who tried the case that I feel it a duty to those gentlemen, whose delicate position almost forbids them writing in their own defense, to say a word or two, with your permission, in their behalf. It is always much easier for people to take their information from newspaper reports, hearsay evidence and street-corner gossip, to criti-$4.25@4.40; good, $4.10@4.25; rough fat, cise judges and juries, than it is for those who are bound by their oath to render a verdict according to the law and the evidence, to decide fairly and impartially in an issue involving the life or death, the liberty or life imprisonment of a fellow-

> The question of insanity is one of the difficult problems with which the gal profession has frequently to deal-a roblem upon the solution of which many f the best medical authorities, who have devoted their time, talents and observation for years, still hold very different and opposite opinions. That the law recognizes insanity as an excuse for crime no one will deny; and, until the law is altered or amended on that subject, we cannot blame lawyers and juries for recognizing it in the defense of prisoners charged with crime. It is the lawyers' right to use it as a defense, and it is for the jury to determine the control of the country to determine the country the country to determine the country to determine the country the country to determine the country to determine the country to determine the country the country the country to determine the country the country the country the country the country the country mine its weight in the particular case and render their verdict accordingly. That the jury in the Rooker case had a task of no ordinary difficulty to perform few who listened to the testimony will question; and that they have honestly and con-scientiously discharged their arduous duty few who listened to the whole case, pro and con, from beginning to end, will venture to deny. The main question which the jury had to decide was whether Alonzo Rooker was sane or insane at the time he mur-dered his wife. If sane he was guilty of murder in the first degree; if insane, then, on that ground alone, he was entitled to an acquittal. If, from the evidence adduced, the jury entertained a reasonable doubt as to his sanity, then the prisoner was entitled to the benefit of that doubt, and, consequently, to an acquittal. From the expert testimony on both sides, while, perhaps, it was not strong enough to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Rooker was actually insane at the time he committed the awful act, yet it was sufficiently strong to create a reasonable doubt in the minds of impartial men forming their opinion alone from the evidence. That the jury so considered it is evident from their verdict; and, having rendered their verdict into court, it would be more becoming in those who, at best, had only a partial view of the case, to withhold their censure. The jury could have no other motive than to discharge their duty conscientiously between the prisoner and the State, according to their oath; and, whether they be praised or blamed, few will believe that they have Bar. Ther. R.H. Wind. Weather. Pre. not conscientiously arrived at their verdict and deserve the consideration of every right-thinking man in the community. As to the conduct of the law ers for the defense in doing their utmost to secure an acquittal for the prisoner, they certainly do not deserve the censure which some wish to bestow upon them. For what purpose were Temp. Prec. they appointed by the State but to defend the prisoner? They were not surely expected to assist the gentlemen for the State in securing a conviction, as the tone of some of the remarks that have appeared in the papers seems to indicate. The prosecuting attorney and his deputy performed their part ably and well in order to convict the prisoner; and if the defense, with no ordinary ability, met their arguments and secured an acquittal for their client, they are certainly not to be blamed There is no use in all this censure of counsel and jury; the verdict has been rendered; it is now too late for explanations. The wretched man must carry in his heart and conscience while he fives the punishment of remorse for his awful crime, and there the matter should be allowed to rest. If lynching bees, as suggested, should take the place of law and order in Indiana, because juries do not render verdicts to please the public, the press, which in this case has been too ready with censure, will be largely responsible.
